

Helping Hands Client Service Handbook

This Handbook is provided to you for reference at any time you are on service with Helping Hands, Orillia (“Helping Hands” or “agency”). This Handbook outlines service option and program details available to you, through Helping Hands. Along with this Handbook you will be requested to sign a service agreement with Helping Hands that outlines your roles and responsibilities, as well as Helping Hands’ roles and responsibilities.

What is a Service Agreement?

A Service Agreement (See Attachment 1) is a contract between you and Helping Hands. Signing it means you agree with the content of the Agreement.

The Agreement gives us your consent to provide you with care and services.

- It allows us to apply for certain benefits on your behalf. These may include subsidized services. You will be asked to sign a consent form, giving Helping Hands permission to share your Personal Health Information with other health care professionals in your ‘Circle of Care’; this is anyone responsible with your direct service or within your care plan coordination team;
- Outlines our roles and responsibilities for the services we provide to you;
- Outlines your roles and responsibilities;
- Describes our commitment to you to keep your personal information confidential. By signing the Agreement, you agree to let us share your information but only when needed by other health care providers;
- Outlines what is expected by all parties related to mutual respect and the safe delivery of care as laid out in Bill 132- Ontario’s Sexual Violence and Harassment legislation.

Before you sign the Service Agreement (Attachment 1), make sure you understand what it says and what Helping Hands can and cannot do for you. Ask as many questions as you need to and take your time in reviewing the information. You can also review the information with a family member or caregiver.

Please note, the Agreement is an outline of your responsibilities and not a dictator of life choices. If English is not your preferred language, the services of an interpreter may be available to you.

Keep your copy of the Service Agreement and Handbook in a safe place, such as in a file cabinet or in a folder.

Structure of your Service Agreement

In order to make your agreement as user-friendly as possible, we have structured it so that you are only required to review and sign for the details pertaining to the program(s) that are applicable to your Care Plan.

You will be presented with a short Service Agreement for review and signing, which may need to be reviewed and resigned as your customized care plan changes by adding or removing services. If your customized Care Plan changes over time, by adding or removing certain services, you can refer to your Handbook for the corresponding appendices. This helps ensure the process minimizes paperwork for you and your caregiver(s) and customizes the Agreement to your specific needs.

What is a Home and Community Care Assessment?

Our health care staff takes the time to review your circumstances and surroundings to see what your personal needs may be.

We may talk about:

- Your health history and current health needs which may include physical, social, cultural, emotional and/or spiritual needs;
- Your Mental Health;
- Your ability to cope with your health care concerns;
- Permission to contact your family, your doctor and others involved in your care;
- What medicines you take;
- How you manage activities of daily living such as eating and dressing;
- What family and social supports you have such as friendships, churches and groups you belong to;
- Your income (this is for potential subsidization purposes only);
- If you self-Identify as Indigenous;

- Your physical health, such as checking your balance or how you move.

From this in-depth assessment, we evaluate what services and programs you are eligible to receive and will review those details with you.

Who is eligible for which program?

Each of our programs has eligibility requirements. Please talk to our Client Intake Planners or one of our Coordinators to verify your eligibility (See Appendix D for Helping Hands' Contact List).

Things you need to know

To generally qualify for subsidized services with Helping Hands, such as personal care, caregiver relief, homemaking, transportation, etc., you should be:

- Be an older adult, residing in one of Helping Hands' catchment areas;
- An adult, over 18 years of age, residing in one of Helping Hands' catchment area(s) and facing mobility limitations* and/or age related illness;

If you fall outside the above criteria you may request a review and approval from the Vice President, Client Services, or designate, on an individual basis;

*Mobility limitations are defined as:

- Physical limitations including vision, hearing, wheelchair or mobility aid(s);
- Bariatric needs;
- Medical conditions limiting mobility.

Some of our services have specific 'clinical criteria' that you must meet to qualify for that service. Subcontracted services may not be applicable to the above eligibility criteria.

How do I get these services?

You can refer yourself to Helping Hands by calling our Main Office or the Client First Response Team (See Appendix D for contact information). Call these numbers to ask any questions about our services. We also accept referrals from another person, on your behalf.

Referrals can be from a:

- Doctor/hospital;
- HCC (Home and Community Care);
- Health care provider;
- Family member;
- Friend;
- Legal guardian.

When you call our main line, we will ask some questions to determine what type of care is needed and connect you with an Intake Planner. If you are a new client, we will have an Intake Planner meet you in person to conduct an assessment (see above for details on assessments) or over the phone depending on the type of service provided, to ensure you will be receiving the best service possible. Your well-being is important to us, as is our continued partnership. Therefore, we conduct reassessments throughout our service with you. This could be after three months or six months depending on the program(s), with which you are involved. If there have been any changes regarding your health or mobility, this may also require a reassessment. If service has not been utilized for 6 months or more, a reassessment may be required depending on requested service.

Professional Services and Sharing Information

You may have a number of professionals involved in your care, such as nurses, physiotherapists or doctors. In order to meet your needs and to provide you with the support you require, you may rely on other professional services and expertise not directed by Helping Hands. You may have several organizations or others attend to your care. However, you have our commitment that the service you receive will be consistent with Helping Hands' standards. We take confidentiality seriously and, therefore, we will ask you to sign the consent form with your agreement for information sharing with these professionals, on an as-needed basis. If, at any time, you feel your privacy has been violated please contact our Privacy Officer (VP, Client Services) or the Privacy Commission of Ontario. Please note a copy of our Privacy Policy is available, as part of your Agreement and this Handbook, along with a brochure on client privacy. This Policy is also available on our website.

Your Service Providers from Helping Hands

Consistency is an important element of our service to you. You can expect that our employees and volunteers will treat you with respect, dignity and consistency. We do everything in our power to maintain punctuality and our staff will always clearly identify themselves and have ID badges and uniforms that help make sure you can identify them as providing services from Helping Hands. Your comfort and security is important to us.

We do not guarantee that the staff member who will be providing you with your services is the same every time. Our staffing schedules are designed to accommodate your needs and preferences as much as possible, but having the same provider with each visit or service is not always possible. However, you can expect that the standard of care and service is consistent, regardless of who is providing you with that service in our organization.

Financial Subsidies

By our very nature and operating model, all of the services Helping Hands offers are subsidized by government funding, donations and volunteer contributions. However, we recognize that some clients may still find the fees for many of our services a barrier to receive those services. Helping Hands uses a special formula to calculate how much a person pays towards the cost of a number of these services and programs offered. The amount you pay depends on your income and funding availability. We do not consider your assets when assessing your financial status. This process is called a 'financial assessment'. We go over the financial assessment with you and anyone you want to assist you in this process. Financial subsidies are a viable option for those clients who are on fixed incomes and help to ensure services remain accessible for everyone who needs them. Some programs, such as in-Orillia transportation and the Meals on Wheels program, have fixed rates and, therefore, are not eligible for financial subsidy. If at any point, your finances change please notify Helping Hands as you may be entitled to a subsidized rate. You may be required to submit financial records annually to maintain a subsidized rate.

Our financially subsidized programs include:

- Transportation (excluding Orillia, in-town rides);
- Personal Care;
- Caregiver Relief;

- Home Making.
* If you require other services and are unable to pay for them please discuss this with the Client Intake Planner

Helping Hands reserves the right to put on hold or discontinue services to clients with overdue accounts, as per agency policy.

How your family and friends can help

We can help you with the health services and care you need to continue to live at home. We can also help connect you with other programs and services or provide you with the transportation to get there. We try to give you as much support as you need, but there are many things we cannot do for you. This is where your family, friends and neighbours can help. Even if your family does not live close by, there are still ways they can be there for you.

Here are ways your family and friends can help care for you:

- Continue to help you with your care, if they were doing so before Helping Hands became involved;
- Be a contingency plan in case of service unavailability;
- Get involved in your care and its direction; learn what is needed and how to do it;
- Help you manage your medications;
- Check in on you regularly, by visiting or calling;
- Take you out on social outings;
- Take you to medical appointments;
- Help you do your banking or paying of bills;
- Help with house cleaning or laundry, or arrange for someone to come in and do this;
- Do some cooking for you;
- Help you with your grocery shopping;
- Help to look after your pet(s);
- Do your yard work or house maintenance, or arrange for someone to do it for you;
- Be present when we first meet with you and at any of our Care Plan meetings.

In other words, Helping Hands services are available to you to help supplement the care and support you already receive, provide your caregivers with relief when needed or to provide services you may be lacking.

There may be times when we are not able to get to you to provide a service, such as when we have a staffing shortage due to illness, during bad weather, or during other emergencies or circumstances outside of our control. Your family, friends and neighbours can help at these times. Having a plan for when our care is unexpectedly interrupted is an important part of your Client Care Plan.

Make sure you show your family or friends this Handbook and Service Agreement in case they have any questions about any of our services or programs.

Remember, the Rights and Responsibilities outlined in this Handbook also apply to others who might make health decisions on your behalf, such as a family member or personal representative, such as a Power of Attorney/Substitute Decision Maker.

Quality Improvement Program

The goal of Helping Hands is to provide you, our client, and/or your family member, with a consistently high level of quality service. Helping Hands considers this to be an evolving, ever changing responsibility. You can help us by letting us know how successfully Helping Hands has met your service needs and where Helping Hands can improve.

To ensure your concerns are heard, Helping Hands has developed the Quality Improvement Program (QIP). Quality Improvement is a formal approach to the analysis of performance and systematic efforts to improve it. Quality Improvement covers all departments, to streamline our services to provide the most efficient and effective care possible. Quality Improvement is designed to address concerns, suggestions and compliments from clients and/or caregivers towards our services and/or employees. Our goal with developing the Quality Improvement Program is to better our agency and increase the client experience.

Helping Hands has a Quality Improvement Officer and a designated back-up to ensure calls are being answered 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. The QIP Officer's roll is defined as, being the main point of contact for clients to make "safe" complaints/suggestions for improvement, investigate concerns/issues, fill out and forward PDSA form, make recommendations for the system improvement, report back to original source where applicable, and track QIP trends. At Helping Hands our QIP Officer is Cheryl Stubbings, you can contact her at 249-385-5306.

Quality Improvement Program Process:

Provide QIP Officer with your concern/complaint/suggestion. They will ask you a few questions and record your statement. If the call is to report a concern or complaint they will determine the severity of the call using our Severity Level form.

The Severity Scale Levels are as follows:

The lowest level of severity is Level green. A green level has minimal risk to the client- An example of a level green includes; not receiving a call back when you have left a message to an employee at the office

The next level of severity would be level yellow, which has an increased level of risk to clients. An example of level yellow includes; an employee never showing up on time

The highest ranking level is level Red, which the QIP officer deems a serious concern by clients. An example of a level red includes confidentiality/privacy breach, risk to client safety ie: not being escorted to door is a level red. The QIP Officer or designate will investigate your concerns thoroughly and fill out a PDSA form. With their findings and will make recommendations for system improvement and report back to the original source where applicable.

Once the investigation is completed, the QIP Committee will review all PDSA forms as well as reviewing outcomes and recommendations (your name will not be included when reviewing the PDSA forms). Helping Hands is also a proud member of the Community Transportation Link

What is the CT Link? The CT Link is a network of community-based transportation service providers developing a web-based Portal that they will use to identify opportunities to pool transportation resources between agencies.

The CT Link will improve mobility options for people using community-based transportation services, such as older adults, people living with disabilities and/or medical concerns, and people on fixed incomes, by increasing their transportation opportunities. The CT Link will provide an opportunity for agencies to maximize their resources to serve our communities and region as effectively as possible, through collaboration and innovation. Our clients will be able to take advantage of this Portal by simply being enrolled with Helping Hands for Transportation service. Coordination of transportation services will still be entirely managed by the staff of Helping Hands and our clients will be provided with greater options in transportation by having access to this pool of vehicles across the region. Clients may elect not to participate in the Portal as well.

Appendix I

Quality Improvement Process

Purpose:

The law states that every Ministry of Health funded agency must have a complaint and appeal process in place. Helping Hands has gone beyond the ministry standard and has developed a QIP process as well. Helping Hands must provide you with a written copy of their complaint/QIP process (Quality Improvement, See Appendix E) if you are receiving services. This process is also available on the Helping Hands Website, www.helpinghandsorillia.ca, under the Resources section. If you are not yet receiving services, and you want to make a QIP suggestion or complaint, you should ask request to speak to the QIP Officer.

Helping Hands must make a decision regarding your complaint outlined by the Ministry of Health within 60 days. If you are not satisfied with the decision, you can appeal to the Health Services and Appeal Review Board (HSARB). However, complaints about quality of service or violations of the Bill of Rights are not complaints that can be appealed to the HSARB. These types of complaints should be directed to Helping Hands senior management..

If you wish to initiate an appeal/complaint with Helping Hands, please follow the steps below:

1. Follow the Quality Improvement Program (See Appendix E).
2. Failing that, contact the VP, Client Services with a formal written request to appeal with the following steps:
 - a. Provide written details of your appeal request, i.e. What is your understanding on why service was withdrawn?
 - b. If you do not agree with the decision made regarding your complaint, and response from the VP, Client Services you may request a face to face meeting with the Chief Executive Officer.

In the event Helping Hands does not bring resolution to the matter, then you may initiate a HSARB application if the complaint meets eligible conditions and process. In some cases you can appeal the final decision of the Committee to the HSARB. You have a legal right to appeal to the HSARB if the organization will not provide you with the amount or type of service you need or if your services are changed, decreased, or stopped.

There are different types of complaints which you are unable to take before the HSARB. These are:

- Complaints about the quality of service you receive
- Complaints that your rights under the Bill of Rights have been violated.
In these situations, you can submit your concerns to Helping Hands senior management; the VP, Client Services or the Chief Executive Officer (CEO). As the person making the complaint, it is your decision to take your complaint from one step to the next. You may include individuals from your support network (family, friends, advocate, and/or lawyer) during this process. If you have a legal right to appeal, you can pursue an appeal once you have followed Helping Hands' Complaint & Appeals and QIP process
- You have not received a written decision from Helping Hands, and it is more than 60 days since you made your complaint.

To appeal to the HSARB, you must write to the HSARB and ask for a hearing. The HSARB will provide you with directions on how to do this and will send you a copy of the rules that apply to the appeal process. Even after you start an appeal, you might settle your case and not have to have a hearing.

In their decision, the HSARB might:

- Agree with Helping Hands.
- Order Helping Hands to make a new decision based on HSARB directions.
